Coyne, Magician and Ventriloquist, Was Good

Coyne, magician and ventriloquist, took this town by storm, with the four shows, given the first three days of the week. There was an entire change of program every performance and each succeeding one seemed to be even better than its predecessor. Mr. Coyne is a splendid type of showman, who gives dignity and respect to his calling, combined with the versatility and perfected art of his many years of experience. He is a magician of the very first class and a really clever ventriloquist. Checking right down the list, we can have nothing but praise for his people: George Houlton, with "Pilot," trained fox terrier; "King," high jumping whippet; "Pete," trained monkey, and the "Eight Educated Birds," Vaughn Dell, colored comedian singer and dancer; Jack O'Brien, musician and comedy actor and singer; a splendid little company. P. J. Houlton is general manager and F. D. Berst general agent. We hope they will include Northfield in their regular itinerary.

ALMOST 1200 VOICES IN SACRED CONCERT

The Northfield Schools Gave Their Usual Excellent Performance to Vast Audience

A vast audience last Sunday afternoon heard the fall sacred concert given by the students of the Northfield Schools, when the girls of Northfield Seminary and the boys of Mount Hermon school sang together in a chorus of 1180 voices in the auditorium at East Northfield. Mr. Irving J. Lawrence, head of the music department of Mount Hermon school, conductor, is to be congratulated upon the sustained excellence of the program. Mr. Lawrence has only one joint rehearsal with the whole chorus of boys and girls, the only practice being done in the half-hour chapel period one morning each week at each of the schools separately, with an extra period of two weeks before the concert. It is most inspiring to hear this great chorus of almost 1200 voices when they sing such favorites as "Thou Did Leave Thy Throne," the music composed by Mrs. May Whittle Moody, and Whittier's hymn, "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind." The girls sang very effectively Kochat's arrangement of "The Lord is My Shepherd"; the boys of Mount Hermon, "Rise Up, Oh, Men of God." Special mention should be made of the excellent rendering, unaccompanied, of "Just As I Am," the music by Bradbury. A choir of 1000 voices selected from the two schools sang, "Oh, Jesus, Thou Art Standing," one of the stanzas being unaccompanied. An instrumental number was given by the teacher of violin at the Seminary, Mrs. Helen Reece Peterson, of Greenfield, who played three selections. The choir's singing, unaccompanied, of the Northfield Benediction made a fitting close to the most excellent program.

Warwick

Town School Destroyed By Fire

The Warwick town school was completely destroyed by fire which broke out in the rear of the building about 5 o'clock Wednesday morning. Lack of water and the headway obtained by the blaze before the Athol fire department arrived made it completely useless to make an attempt to save the structure by the use of chemicals.

The fire department arrived about 20 minutes after a call had been sent in, and the building was aflame from cellar to roof. With no water available, there was no way in which to save the building, and the structure was completely ruined. It was estimated that the cost of building a new school would reach at least $7000. The building was partly covered by insurance.

The cause of the fire is unknown, although it is believed that a hot air furnace in the rear of the building, where the fire started, was responsible for the blaze.

The informal opening of our flying field last week passed off in good style and all parties concerned are certainly to be congratulated.

There were five planes at the field Saturday, three on Friday, two on Sunday and one on Monday. While we are without any official figures, conservative estimates seems to indicate that there were over one hundred autos and 500 people on the grounds Friday; over 250 autos and over 1300 people Saturday, and $450 was taken in for passenger hops by the pilots during Friday and Saturday. Ten per cent of this ($45) comes to the field.

The parachute jump on Saturday was well done and everybody got a kick out of it. For this jump the visiting pilots contributed $20, the field paid $20 and there was a hat collection taken up of about $6.

The aviation ball on Friday evening was largely attended and a most enjoyable affair, reflecting credit upon both the town and the Community Social Club, who sponsored it. It was hoped by the club to have something to hand over towards our flying field development fund, but the fates willed otherwise and, we understand, the Community Social Club will pocket a deficit of about nine dollars on the affair.

The sale of 1929 membership badges produced $28.70 and the free ride (paid for by the field) was won by Lawrence Lazelle. Auto checks produced $44.35, and the winning number was not claimed in time, so that we did not have to pay for the ride.

Practically all work or service on the field during the flying days was done voluntarily. Even the constable's fees were assumed by the town. For the services of the detachment of the Boston Regiment of the Boy's Brigade, whose military encampment and well organized guard duty did so much for the happiness and safety of the days only $13.75 was required, being subsistence and cost of gasoline in transportation.

Probably the most substantial offering made to the cause (aside, of course, from Mr. Quinlan's monumental providing of the field) was that of the Mount Hermon School Band, which furnished a splendid musical and marching program upon both days of the meet, reflecting equal honor upon both their school and the town of Northfield. And, also, we must not fail to mention the East Northfield Transfer Company, who supplied transportation on both days for the band. And rather linked up with this again, should be acknowledgements to the Northfield Schools for the loan of boat and gear, for the three tents and for trucking and transportation.

While there are still one or two charges outstanding, which will have to be met, either in whole or in part, it looks as if we will have over $25 to start our field development fund.

Local Folks in an Auto Mishap Not Serious

Just before twilight Sunday, near the entrance to the covered bridge known as the Howland bridge one and a half mile south of Townsend, two cars, carrying ten persons, came together with sufficient force to throw several of the occupants out, and badly damaging one of the machines, but, fortunately, without serious injury to any one. Mrs. Atherton Hale of East Ryegate, Vt., with her mother and three children, was driving her car northward, and in the other direction J. Algot Scherlin of South Vernon was driving his car with his wife and three children. The latter car was in under the cover of the bridge and Mrs. Hale, entering the shadow without seeing the other car around the sharp turn at the entrance, was unable to avoid colliding with the Scherlin car in the narrow roadway. Her car was badly damaged, a wheel torn off and the engine twisted out of place. Mr. Scherlin's car was less damaged. The only one in the party injured was one of the Scherlin boys, and that not so he had to go to the hospital. Neither blamed the other, and each said the accident was unavoidable in the dark entrance to the bridge, and neither car had lights on at the time.

Boy Scouts Registration Takes Place Tonight

The annual re-registration of members of the Boy Scout troops takes place in Union hall this (Friday) night at 8 o'clock. The Community Club, which is sponsoring the troop this year, is combining with the boys to make this an event everyone will want to attend.

Beside the re-registration of old members of the troop, there will be several new members to be initiated and also a new patrol to be installed. This will be called the Wolf patrol, and will be made up of boys living at Northfield street who have joined the troop.

Invited guests will include members of the Boy's Brigade of Northfield, and also of all parents of scouts, whether old or new members of the troop.

During the evening the boys will give demonstrations of some of the regular scout work. Rev. F. W. Pattison of East Northfield will be present and will give a talk to the boys.

At the close of the scout activities, the Community Club will serve a supper in the dining room. The supper will be under the direction of the social committee of the club.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend, and it is hoped a good number will avail themselves of the opportunity to see what the scouts are doing. Admission will be free, but a collection will be taken up to help pay the expenses in connection with the supper.

Roger Billings has finished shingling the main part of his house and has the ell nearly done.

Mrs. Elva Stacy went to Keene, N. H., on Sunday to visit her brother, Charles Whitaker, who is quite sick. Walter Parsons of Orange took her up in his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Glazier of North Leverett visited their son, Harry Glazier, and family on Sunday, bringing home Clayton Glazier, who had spent the week-end with his grandparents, and attended the Belchertown fair with them.

Editorial

OUR AIRPORT A GOOD PRACTICAL LESSON IN COMMUNITY WORK . . . IF NOTHING ELSE

We may have been wrong, but we had the idea that this town was getting unduly individualistic with the passing of the old-fashioned neighborly barn raisings and corn huskings; that there was a growing tendency to leave all public or community enterprises to groups or cliques or societies or committees, and rather assume that whatever they did or did not do, was apt to be for their own selfish ends, and so on. With this thought in mind it is rather refreshing to look backward from our very successful informal opening of our airport last week, and recall some few among the many items of co-operation that made the whole thing possible.

Take Friday and Saturday last. . . . How could we have had them without the boat that "Hub" Reed provided, the wind cone that Miss Mary Moor made, the coils of rope that Miss Mary Quinlan loaned, the tents borrowed from the Seminary and freely delivered and carted away again by the Transfer Company, the gasoline outfit that Miles Morgan installed and served, the signs that Harlan Atwood and others lettered (and, also, the still larger and more elaborate ones that Miles Morgan put up later), the concerts each day by the Mt. Hermon School Band (and not forgetting the transportation provided for them by the Transfer Company, both ways, on the two days), the attendance both days of Dr. Wright upon the field, the services of Constable Haskell provided by the town fathers (and, by the way, the fixing up of some of the bad spots on Meadow Street just two days before the same), the replanking of the railroad crossing by Section Boss Speer and his crew, the guards furnished by the Boston Regiment of the Boy's Brigade (by reason of our own "Lal" being one of their valued officers), as well as by our State Constabulary from Shelburne Falls, and so on and so forth.

And in the hectic days before the meet, when there still remained so much to be done on the field (although Lawrence Quinlan and his boys and his horses and all had been working like Trojans whenever they could take the time from the necessary work of earning their livelihood), how fine it was of Louis Weber and his crew and Arthur Howe and Warren Whitman and Steenbruggen and Harlan Atwood and others to pitch in, as they could, and help.

And on the days of the meet itself, what could we have done without "Lal" Quinlan, Eddie Morgan, Harlan Atwood, Herman Miner, Miles Morgan, Arthur Quinlan, Steenbruggen and others (am trying hard to think of everybody but there are sure to be names omitted that should be mentioned) to help with the badge selling, auto checking, flying tickets, carrying the messages and all the other multifarious details required to handle a crowd safely and comfortably.

Of course, we were specially blessed by our Heavenly Father with both good weather and immunity from tragedies in both flying and parachute jumping; but, aside from these, we feel that it was the community effort, so finely put forth, that made the two days the successes they were. And so, even if nothing further develops from our airport (which, of course, we do not believe) we feel that the whole affair, so far, has been a very practical lesson for us all in the possibilities of community work and co-operation. Heaven always helps those who help themselves, and almost anything is possible for us now in Northfield, with the experience we have gained in the power of effort put forth in united fashion. Cheerio!

Selected Recipes

Delicious Veal

Use veal steak one-half inch thick. Cut into pieces large enough for a serving. Beat the yoke of one egg and add a teaspoon or more of water, into this dip the veal; then roll in bread crumbs which have been toasted and well seasoned with salt and pepper. Have an iron spider piping hot with about one-fourth inch hot fat in the bottom. Panfry the veal quickly on both sides until a nice brown, then cover the veal with hot milk (a pint or more of sour cream may also be used). Cover tightly and set in a slow oven for about one hour, removing the lid for the last 15 minutes.

Baked Green Peppers

6 medium-sized green sweet peppers
1 cup nectars raisins
1 small piece of onion, chopped
1 sup ground left-over cooked meat
1 cup cooked rice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup fine breadcrumbs
Cut a slice from stem end of pepper, remove seeds and parboil 5 minutes. Drain and sprinkle inside with salt. Heat food chopper in boiling water, then put raisins through, using medium cutter. To raisins add chopped onion, ground meat, cooked rice, salt and poultry seasoning. Fill peppers with mixture. Melt butter, stir in crumbs, then cover peppers with crumbs. Place in baking pan with a little hot water to prevent burning. Cover and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Remove cover and brown. Serve hot with brown or tomato sauce.

TOO MUCH SCENERY

"Ye gods! Why did you ditch that queen you had and get a homely nut like that old hen of your stenographer?" exclaimed the friend of the boss. "To keep from going into bankruptcy," he grinned, "the homely nut does six much times as much work as the queen did—and the clerks—and I are doing six times more work than she did while she was here."

Wife: "When we were married I thought you were a brave man." people.

Miss Emma Estey

Miss Emma Estey, who for many years was a resident of this town, died at the hospital in Westmoreland, N. H., last Saturday morning. She had been confined there for the past three months. The body was brought here and the funeral services were held from J. M. Lamb's undertaking parlors, this week Monday afternoon. Interment took place in the family lot in Dummerston, Vt.

Barbara June Gould

Barbara June Gould, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gould, died at 4.45 a. m. last Friday in the Elliott Community hospital at Keene.

The child underwent an operation about two weeks ago for the removal of tonsils, and recovered from so as to be able to go to school. She was a pupil in the fourth grade. Last Wednesday evening she was taken suddenly ill and was removed to the hospital Thursday afternoon. Death resulted from pneumonia.

Born in Hawley, Mass., June 16, 1920, she was one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gould. Besides her parents, she leaves two sisters, Camilla and Dorothy, and one brother, Ernest, all at home. Funeral services were held from the home of her aunt, Mrs. Marcus G. Worden, Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. Johnson A. Haines, pastor of the First Congregational church officiated. Interment took place in Pine Grove cemetery.

Bruce—Knapp

Louis Russell Knapp, son of Mrs. E. F. Coons, and Miss Verma Gertrude Bruce, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude E. Bruce, all of this town, were united in marriage Wednesday morning, Oct. 16, at 10 o'clock, in the Congregational parsonage at Keene, N. H., by the Rev. Edward H. Newcomb, pastor of the Congregational church, who performed the single ring ceremony.

The couple were attended by Mrs. Harry L. Bruce, a sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Harold A. Bruce, brother of the bride, as best man.

The bride was attired in an ensemble of figured transparent velvet, with hat to match. The matron of honor wore riverine blue silk canton crepe, with hat in harmony. The bride's gift to her matron of honor was a crystal necklace, and the groom's gift to the best man was a gold pencil. Following the ceremony, the couple returned here, to the home of the bride's mother, where a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives and invited guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Knapp were the recipients of many useful gifts.

Mrs. Knapp attended the local schools and was graduated from the high school in the class of 1924. Later she attended Bay Path Institute in Brattleboro. Mr. Knapp also attended school here, and is at present employed at the Hinsdale Paper Mfg. Co.

Their wedding tour will include the White Mountains, Ashland, N. H., and Sherbrooke, P. Q. Upon their return, they will begin housekeeping in the tenement on Main street, which they have recently furnished.

Walter A. Brooks

The body of Walter A. Brooks, 46, of this town, who, with a companion, Frank Young, also of this town, drowned in North pond on Pisagh mountain in Winchester, N. H., probably on the night of Sept. 5 last, was found late Thursday afternoon by two Harvard University students who were in that locality on forestry study.

The body was taken to Winchester for examination by Medical Examiner Arthur F. Weston, who said death was caused by accidental drowning.

Mr. Young's body was found floating in the pond Sept. 7. The two men went to the pond on a fishing trip Sept. 5, planning to camp three days. It is believed Mr. Young had an attack of apoplexy or a heart attack and fell from a boat and that Mr. Brooks lost his life in trying to rescue Young, as no water was found in Young's lungs. Forty sticks of dynamite were exploded in various sections of the pond on the afternoon of Friday, Sept. 27, in a futile effort to raise Mr. Brooks' body. John Dickinson of Ashuelot was in charge of the dynamiting.

Walter A. Brooks was born in Hartford, Conn., March 25, 1883, a son of Arthur J. and the late Addie Brooks. He attended Hinsdale high school. He was employed as a cutter at the White-Washburn Paper Co. mill, and lived with his sister, Mrs. Charles Kelley. He formerly was a well-known ball player, being at one time a member of the Stafford Springs, Conn., team. He also played on the Brattleboro Y. M. C. A. team some years ago while an employee of the E. L. Hildreth & Co.'s printing office there.

Besides his father, he leaves two sisters, Mabel, wife of Charles Kelley, and Eva, wife of Fred Varno; one brother, Winfield Brooks, all of this town, and a half-brother, Bert Caldwell, of Newington, Conn.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist Episcopal church at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Bruvold officiating. Mrs. Austin Smith sang two selections, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Abide With Me." Interment took place in the family lot in Pine Grove cemetery. Those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, Winchester, N. Office of the BOARD OF SELECTMEN Northfield, Mass.

You are hereby required, on or before Dec. 1, 1929, to destroy the gypsy and brown tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 132, General Laws, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land. (Section 18, Chapter 132, General Laws, on reverse).

The Selectmen ask owners and tenants to co-operate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens who have cleaned their premises of the moths, but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates, should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moth should be destroyed at once with cresote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on trees, but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. Trees in which cavities occur and which it is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important. The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well-cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown tail moth should be cut from the trees, carefully collected and burned in a stove or furnace.

Full instructions as to the best methods of work against the moths may be obtained from the Local Superintendent, Rodrick Parker, or from the State Forester, Room 519, State House, Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractors should be inspected and approved by Local Superintendent before payment for the same is made.

"I've Been Reading"

By WILDER BUELL

THE PATCHWORK MADONNA, by Harold Weston, William Morrow & Co., pages 252, price $2.50.

Psychoanalysis has been so much discussed for the last few years that books upon the subject are becoming a little trite. In fact, I am informed in New York that this subject has definitely gone out in intellectual circles as the current highbrow fad and a cult called Behaviorism has taken its place. Now, to the lay mind, there is not a great deal to choose between them. Both are elaborate structures of philosophy and cynicism based on a modicum of new scientific knowledge. It is the curse of science, and of any new idea or any real contribution to the sum of human knowledge, that the moment a discovery is announced, a whole school of thought immediately crystallizes about it and elaborates a lot of nonsense. With the result that the grain of new truth is lost in a mass of silly speculation. And conservative people are inclined to throw out the grain of truth along with the chaff. It is a natural reaction. However, there is often some very valuable thought at the bottom of these intellectual fads that sweep the world. And it is well to know what it is. In the case of psychoanalysis this core of new truth is especially interesting and useful. It is that there are many people in the world who, while mentally and physically mature and normal, have not reached emotional maturity. The Viennese physician, Sigmund Freud, in studying cases of hysteria and extreme nervousness, found that in many cases, it was this carrying over of childish traits into adult life that was at the root of the trouble. All children go through a series of emotional attitudes that are normal for the age at which they usually occur. But when, through temperamental weakness, or because of some shock or fright or grief, one of these traits is retained into adult life as a part of the emotional equipment, trouble results. The person is what we call "nervous," or perhaps "queer." Suppose, for instance, that a little boy of four years takes off all his clothes and runs around shouting for his family to admire him. It is not a shocking or serious matter. It is a normal thing to do from the point of view of four years old. But suppose a man of fifty does the same thing. He is shut up in an insane asylum and treated for mental disease. Such childish conduct is antisocial and highly improper at the age of fifty. This is an extreme case. But it illustrates the idea at the root of psychoanalysis. Many people have childish emotional traits, not so spectacular as this one, that they have never outgrown. And the result is nervousness and a lack of adjustment to life. Whenever it is possible for the physician, or an intelligent friend, to get the sufferer to realize that he is feeling and acting like a child, instead of an adult, he is cured. The difficulty is to get him to realize it. For it takes more than brains and will power. It takes imagination. And so few of us have imagination.

And that is the point at which psychoanalysis was developed and went off into magic and witchcraft. For, in his attempt to get at the hidden emotions of nervous patients, Dr. Freud tried out and gave to the world a series of techniques, which were carried on by his admirers, and some of which are fantastic in the extreme. The philosophy of the subconscious, the interpretation of dreams, the use of symbols, have been carried by many people to the point of absurdity, and are now about to be discarded, while the sensation seekers rush on to something else. It is just as well. For it is beyond human credence that, for instance, we play jokes on ourselves in our dreams and make puns in our subconscious! You dream of Henry the Fourth. Have you overworked on your history lesson? No, indeed. You once knew a girl named Ivy. And you are really dreaming about her. Read Henry the Fourth as Henry I. V. Get the idea! All of which belongs to what Roosevelt once called the lunatic fringe that gathers around every advance in human thought.

The book under review is about an actress who gets herself psychoanalyzed. It is light and amusing reading and the heroine wears some awfully good-looking clothes, which are minutely described. She has had a hectic life, too, which comes out in the course of the cure. And there are some exciting moments when you are not quite sure whether the doctor will cure the lady or get himself brained with the poker. In short, an amusing book! If you agree with what I have just said of psychoanalysis, you will find the book enlightening and entertaining. If you swallow Dr. Freud and his cult, hook, line and sinker, you will find it perfectly thrilling!

Mason-Bates Wedding at Greenfield

Miss Helen Burt Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mason of 92 Pierce street, Greenfield, and Charles Henry Bates of this town, son of Mrs. Henry C. Hall of South Dennis, were married Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a pretty ceremony at the home of the bride. Rev. George K. Carter of the First Congregational church performed the ceremony. The single ring service was used. The couple were attended by Miss Dorothy E. Eldridge of South Dennis as maid of honor, and Clair Hall, also of South Dennis, was best man. Barbara Jasper of Ashua, N. H., young cousin of the bride, was flower girl, and the wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Gegenheimer of Waverly, aunt of the bride. The home was attractively decorated with spruce boughs and bitersweet, and cut flowers were used in the dining room.

The bride wore a frock of white georgette with uneven hemline and her veil was of tulle, arranged in cap style. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Her maid of honor was attired in yellow and carried carnations. Following the ceremony, a reception to friends and relatives was held. Both the bride and bridegroom graduated from Greenfield high school. The bride has been employed as cashier at Rosen's and the groom is employed by the Greenfield Electric Light & Power Co. Following a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., they will make their home on the Leyden road.

The parents of the bride are very well known here. Mr. Mason, son of Mrs. Belle Mason, was born and educated here. Mrs. Mason was also a resident for several years, being employed in an office of Northfield Seminary. The grandmother, Mrs. Belle Mason, attended the wedding.

A Correction in Our Review of Mr. Conner's Book

Editor, Northfield Press: The author of "Shorthand Made Most Legible for Personal or General Use" appreciates your commendation of his textbook and is sure that a correction of a misstatement will be welcomed by you, namely, that the system is based upon that of Pitman which was learned in early days. What you took as a matter of course was a mistake.

It is very unlike the other. It is in light line, or with noncompulsory shading, has slope of longhand, and direct relation to line of writing, which is not characteristic of any Pitmanic system, of which there have been a number published, and so has a different alphabet. It has features of the Gregg shorthand, but again a different alphabet, with more stenographic power, and does not resort to the extensive dropping of terminations for brevity.

It is demonstrable that with fewer strokes of pen more sound of speech will be represented by this method than by any other. Besides, in its acquirement, there will be comparatively little memory work, with rules of writing simply stated and learnable by their application, with few abbreviations and no phrases to memorize.

C. C. CONNER.

Something About U. S. Army As a Career

The enlisted force of the army is made up of young men from all parts of the country and from all walks of life. The army accepts only men of good character and habits. Ward friendships made while in the service last for years. Men who have formed friendships in the service frequently get together and save their money, and upon discharge engage in business in civil life as partners. Hundreds of thousands of former soldiers, now in civilian pursuit, look back with pride and pleasure to their army service, and delight in recalling their varied and interesting experiences.

The army of the United States is the best paid, the best fed and the best kept army in the world. The soldiers' opportunity for advancement, mentally and physically, is of the best.

Soldiers of the U. S. army are stationed in the United States, Panama Canal, Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, China and Alaska.

A man may enlist for any of the above and is sent by boat if enlisting for overseas, through the Panama Canal to San Francisco, on to their destination.

This is a trip that gives one the opportunity to see a new part of the world. Men going to the Philippines make a stop in Japan.

The army offers travel and trades, as well as paying a monthly wage. No worries about the doctor's bill, dentist, the butcher, the baker—Uncle Sam takes care of all for the man in the service.

Those who desire information on the above will find the nearest office at Fitchburg U. S. Army recruiting station. A card will bring you prompt information.

Ladies' Sewing Society

The Ladies' Sewing Society met last week Thursday, with 28 present. Two bed quilts were tied. One was pieced by Mrs. Mary Houghton of Pine street, and is to be a gift to Dr. Mary Cashman for her hospital in West Africa. Mrs. Houghton also gave to the society the pieced top for another bed quilt. Work was planned and some cut out for the mission box which they will sew for at the coming meeting.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society met at the parsonage this week.

A regular meeting of Mt. Tobey chapter was held Tuesday evening. Remember the Grange fair, supper and program next Friday, the 25th.

Miss Helen Parker entertained relatives from Lynn over the week-end. Stanley Webber of Northeastern University was at home for the week-end.

Miss Mildred Mason is entertaining Miss Eleanor Desmond of Boston this week-end.

Miss Liola Armstrong of Wollaston spent the holiday and week-end with Mrs. Hayden.

The past masters of Montague Grange have charge of the program at the Grange this evening.

A delegation of local grangers attended Pomona Grange at Shelburne last evening and furnished a part of the program.

"Visiting Week" at school was much enjoyed by the pupils, teachers and guests. It is hoped that parents and friends will visit our school oftener.

A reception to the teachers of the town will be held at Grange hall next Tuesday evening. This is under the joint auspices of the P. T. A. and the Grange.

VICTIM OF THE TIMES

Tramp: "Yes'm, lady, women was the cause of me present condition."

The Lady: "Just in what way?"

Tramp: "Well, ya' see, ma'am, I used used to earn a good living selling hairpins and when the dames took to bobbing their hair-me business dwindled down to nothing and I had to take to the road."

THE PARTING SHOT

Mr. Bore: "I've tried many seemingly impossible feats and succeeded."

Companion (fed up): "Really! Did you ever try to have the last word with an echo?"

Much-Mated Corn

If corn were human we would call him a polygamist, for he has a long list of companionship of many and varied associates. Corn and beans make the world-renowned succotash. Canned corn sautéed in bacon fat and mixed with the chopped, fried bacon makes a delectable dish. Canned corn with sautéed green peppers and onions is another popular way to serve it. And there is no end to the soups in which corn figures.

New Soul-Mates

But not satisfied with his present mates, corn has recently added still others. Some of these combinations are:

Breakfast Corn: Chop the large cold boiled potatoes fine and sauté until brown in two tablespoons of bacon fat. Add one cup of canned corn and brown again. Season. Break two eggs into the mixture and scramble lightly together. Serve with broiled bacon.

Corn and Carrot Pudding: Mix the contents of an eight-ounce can of corn, an eight-ounce can of diced carrots, two tablespoons of chopped green pepper, and one cup of white sauce. Add two eggs, and pour into a buttered casserole. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., until set or a knife comes out clean. It will take about forty-five minutes.

Baked potatoes may be cut in half and the centers scooped out and mashed. Mix with half as much canned corn, season highly, and pile back in the potato shells. Put a dab of butter on the top and brown in the oven.*
